DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/12/2004 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-, 15 and 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The phrase "the same as or compatible with" as recited in lines 7-8 and 10-11 renders the claim vague and indefinite. It is unclear as to what the "same as or compatible with insulating material" is meant. Which one defined by what is the compatible with insulating material? Is it defined by characteristics or size or material? Clarification is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bare et al. (US PAT. 5,665,653).

Bare et al. teach a process of encapsulating an electrochemical sensor comprising steps of: introducing the sensor (603) and the exposed length of wire (connected with bonding pads as shown in Fig. 5) into a covering element (401) comprising a first thermoplastic material (301 as shown in Fig. 3); and covering the sensor and the exposed length of wire by overmolding the sensor and the exposed length of wire with a second thermoplastic material (701) as shown in Fig. 9 (see also col. 4, line 21 to col. 6, line 53).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bare et al.

Bare et al. teach all of the limitations as set forth above including that the covering element is a covering tube (401 as shown in Fig. 7a) and the covering tube is placed and blocked in a mold (101) for preventing movement of the covering tube. However, Bare et al. do not teach the injection molding for the overmolding. According to Fig. 3, the covering tube is formed by poured or injected as disclosed in col. 4, lines 52-59. Accordingly in Fig. 9, the overmolding process is shown as almost identical process as Fig. 3 and the encapsulating process of Fig. 9 is performed either by pouring or actively drawn into the tool as disclosed in col. 6, lines 48-53. Therefore, although Bare et al. do not disclose the injection molding for encapsulating process, it would have been an obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to overmold (encapsulate) the sensor and the wire with the thermoplastic material (col. 5, lines 1-3) of Bare et al. by the injection molding in order to cover the sensor and the wire.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claim 16 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

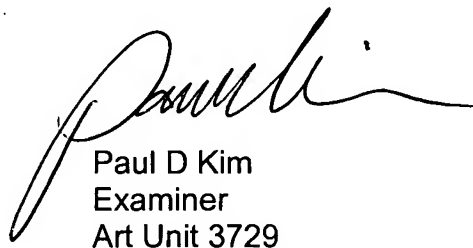

9. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 10, 15 and 16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Rejections are based on the newly cited reference.
